THE BULLDOG BEAUTY CONTEST

& Haute Dog Pageants will take place Sun., Feb. 13, 2011, at 10 a.m. on the grass under the shade trees at Marine Stadium in Long Beach, just blocks from Belmont Shore.

A FACE EVERYONE LOVES!

THE BULLDOG BEAUTY CONTEST will be the main event at this year's Haute Dog Pageants produced by beauty pageant and bulldog enthusiast Justin Rudd. In addition to the Bulldog and French Bulldog contests, Rudd will include pageants for Pugs and Senior Dogs (all breeds/mixes, ages 10 & older). Contestants ranging in age from four months to 17 years are expected to again travel to Long Beach, from as far as northern California, Las Vegas, and Arizona, to compete for the coveted 2011 titles.

The quadrupeds will parade down a grassy runway that included a 100-ft. red carpet runway, flanked by hundreds of gawkers and a panel of real-life beauty queen judges. Judging was based on charm, first impression, face, figure and personality.

The Haute Dog Pageants are a fundraiser for Rudd's nonprofit 501c3 Community Action Team (C.A.T.) of which "Haute Dogs" and "Operation Santa Paws" are a part. Each dog in the contest donates a fee and several thousand dollars was raised from entry fees, front-row seating rentals along the runway and vendors space rentals.

Leave plenty of time for parking - more than 1,000 spectators are expected again this year.
